

INDO-AMERICAN RELIGIOUS RELATIONS : 1793-1893 A.D.

HIMEN DAS

Indo-American Religious Relations: 1793-1893 A.D.

Himen Das

N L Publication
Anandaram Baruah Road
Pan Bazar, Guwahati— 781001
Assam, India

Indo-American Religious Relations:1793-1893 A.D. A book containing the matter of Indo-American Religious Relations from 1793 to 1893A.D. by Himen Das, a Ph.D. Scholar of History, Pondicherry University, Pondicherry, who hails from Kamakhya Gate, Near Ganesh Mandir, Guwahati-781009 (Assam) and published by Alak Adhikari, N L Publication, Anandaram Baruah Road, Pan Bazar, Guwahati-781001, Assam, India.

First Edition : August 14, 2020

ISBN 978-93-85230-68-4

©Himen Das, the author

Published by : N L Publication Anandaram Baruah Road
Pan Bazar, Guwahati- 781001
Assam, India

Cover Design : Sketches of the Globe and America to India, 1846-1849 A.D. [Indebted to 'The Orunodoi', the first Assamese monthly, April 1846, January 1849and February 1849Colour by the author.]

Price : Rupees Three Hundred only

Printed at : Design Space
Chandmari, Guwahati 781021
Assam: India

Indo-American Religious Relations: 1793-1893 A.D.

CONTENT

My sincere feeling.

Part One

American Religious Relations with India : 1793-1893 A.D.

Chapter-1: Inception of American Religious Relations with India:

- | | | |
|--------|--|----|
| 1.1. | Beginning of American Christian Religious Thoughts on India in 1790s. | 3 |
| 1.2. | Beginning of Organisational Christian Religious works in America for India : 1790s-1814. | 5 |
| 1.3. | American Donation for Evangelical works in India till 1814 | 13 |
| 1.4. | Inception of American Christian Religious works in India. | 13 |
| 1.4.1. | Christianity in India Prior to the arrival of American Missionaries. | 13 |
| 1.4.2. | Arrival of First American Missionaries in India | 16 |
| 1.4.3. | Establishment of Early American Christian Missions in India: 1793-1893s | 16 |
| 1.4.4. | Works of American Missions in North India : Evangelical works and Establishment of Mission Stations in North India (1834-1857) | 19 |
| 1.4.5. | American works and Methods for conversions In North India : (1834-1857) | 21 |
| 1.4.6. | Educational works of American Missionaries in North India (1834-1857) | 24 |
| 1.4.7. | American Orphange in North India | 25 |
| 1.4.8. | The beginning of Religious Literary works of the American Missionaries in North India (1836) | 26 |

Chapter-II: WORKS OF AMERICAN MISSIONARIES IN NORTH-EAST INDIA (1836-1841) :

2.1.	First arrival of American Missionaries in North-East India	32
2.2.	Background and perspectives Leading to the coming of American Missionaries to North-East India	33
2.2.1.	American interest to Evangelize China through North-East India	33
2.2.2.	Interest of British Officers to Evangelize North-East India	35
2.3.	The Shan Mission-American works at Sadiya Station (1836-1839)	37
2.3.1.	The beginning of American works at Sadiya Station	37
2.3.2.	Survey of Sadiya	38
2.3.3.	Two Schools established and run by American Ladies at Sadiya (1836-1839) perspective of their closure	40
2.3.4.	The other three Village Schools at Sadiya	41
2.3.5.	The syllabus and Curriculum of the Sadiya Schools	42
2.3.6.	THE OUTCOME OF THE SADIYA SCHOOLS	43
2.3.7.	SADIYA STATION AND LITERARY CONTRIBUTION:	43
2.3.8.	JAIPUR STATION UNDER SHAN MISSION:	46
2.3.8.1.	Jaipur School: Established by American Missionaries in June, 1838	46
2.3.8.2.	Shan Mission: First Baptisation and its effects	48
2.3.8.3.	Shan Mission: Jaipur Station- A Gateway to Namsang Station	52
2.3.8.4.	Namsang Station: Last hope for Shan Mission	53
2.3.8.5.	Closure of Namsang Station	58
2.3.8.6.	Evaluation of Namsang Station	59
2.3.8.7.	The Shan Mission turned into Assam Mission	62

Part Two

Indian Religious Impact in USA:1793-1893 A.D.

Chapter-III. INCEPTIONS OF INDIAN RELIGIOUS IMPACT IN USA:

3.1.	Indian Religious Impact in USA in Ancient Times	74
3.2.	Indian Religious impact in modern USA:	75
3.2.1.	Indian Religious impact on Theosophical Society: 1875 onwards	75
3.2.2.	Theosophical Society: From America to India	76
3.2.3.	Objectives of the Theosophical Society	76
3.2.4.	Religions, World Parliament of Religions and Theosophical Society	76
3.2.5.	Places of Hinduism and Buddhism in Theosophical Society	82
3.2.6.	Western Thoughts, Western Scholars and Theosophical Society	85

Chapter-IV: Brahmo Samaj and their works in USA (1883-1893) :

4.1.	The Brahmo Samaj	98
4.2.	Works of Brahmo Samaj in USA (1883-1893)	99

Chapter-V: Religious visits of Swami Vivekananda in America:1893-1896 & 1899-1900 :

5.1.	Duration of the stay of Swami Vivekananda in USA	105
5.2.	Life of Swami Vivekananda Before he visited America	106
5.3.	Americans' help to Swami Vivekananda for his participation In World Parliament of Religion	109
5.4.	Purpose of Vivekananda's American visit: A brief analysis	111

5.5.	Vivekananda's lectures in America in Pre-Parliament period	113
5.5.1.	Vivekananda's first lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	114
5.5.2.	Vivekananda's second lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	115
5.5.3.	Vivekananda's third lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	117
5.5.4.	Vivekananda's fourth lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	119
5.5.5.	Vivekananda's fifth lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	123
5.5.6.	Vivekananda's sixth lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	123
5.5.7.	Vivekananda's seventh lecture in America and his contacts with the Americans	124
5.6.	Vivekananda's performance in the World Parliament of Religions	127
5.7.	Assessment	132

Himen Das, a Ph. D. Scholar of Pondicherry University who hails from Kamakhya Gate, Near Ganesh Mandir, Guwahati— 781009, Assam, India is interested mainly in the history of contacts between country and country, more clearly Western and Eastern history, which is nothing but Global History. Global History, besides other corners, is the history of mankind. Mankind earns spirit from contact. The history of contact leads us to understand the various aspects of global society— culturally, commercially, mythologically, ethnically, economically, and so on. Without contact man becomes a creature of barren land, about which T.S. Elliot, the Nobel Laureate Poet of 1948 wrote symbolically in his world-famous work The Waste Land. Main purpose of history is not to live on waste land but on fertile soil. History is for past, present and future— at least in his understanding. He reads and writes history with this motto only. His research topic for Ph.D. is also bordering, and echoing on this horizon— ‘Anti-British Resistance in North East India: 1774-1919’.

This is his second book on history at the age of 27 years (b. December 14, 1992). The book highlights on Indo-American Religious Relations covering a period of one century (1793-1893)— spreading of Christianity in India and impact of Hinduism in America.