Educational Field Trip to Report

SEC—Historical Tourism in Assam and North-East India: Manas National Park, Assam

Date:

Participants: Educational exploration of bio-diversity and conservation efforts

The field trip of Manas National Park in Assam was organized by the Department of History, P.B. College, Gauripur on 22.12.2022 to provide students with an exciting experience in a diverse eco-system and to learn about the conservation challenges and efforts in one of the India's most renowned national parks.

The students departed from the college campus early in the morning along with the teachers of different departments. The journey to the park was accompanied by discussions and briefings from our teachers, highlighting the significance of Manas National Park in the context of bio-diversity conservation.

After arrival at the park the students were greeted by the natural beauty of Manas National Park. The scenic landscapes, dense forests and the gentle flow of the Manas River immediately captivated our attention. The students were briefed about the park's history, its UNESCO World Heritage status, and the various species of flora and fauna it hosts.

The students spotted diverse wildlife, such as elephants, tigers, rhinoceros and different species of birds and butterflies. They also learned about different plant species and their ecological importance. Discussions among the students focused on the delicate balance of eco-systems and the impact of human activities on bio-diversity. Discussions with the staff of the park included poaching threats, habitat loss, and ongoing conservation initiatives.

The field trip to Manas National Park was a profound learning experience that deepened our appreciation for wildlife conservation and environmental atmosphere. It showed the importance of preserving natural habitats and bio-diversity for future generations.

We left the park inspired and with a renewed commitment to advocate for environmental sustainability in our own communities.
